Real Books for Real Kids

Cam O'Mara's big brother Ben is a champion bull rider. When Ben is seriously injured in the Iraq War, Cam turns to bull riding and family traditions to cope with his grief and loss. Bull Rider - Available from Margaret K. McElderry (Simon and Schuster), 2009.

This first novel makes the sports details of skateboarding and bull-riding part of the powerful contemporary story of family, community, and work – Booklist

The book isn't overtly anti- or pro-war so much as pro the people who are struggling with this difficult change in their lives. This is therefore a gripping read for fans of family dramas, and it's certainly high time that this aspect of the war's consequences received a sensitive and compelling exploration. - The Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books

Bull Rider, vividly captures life on a modern Nevada ranch. . . .(it) is the story of real people, in real situations, that will ring true even if readers have never seen a salt lick, a chute, or the open range. - Ellen Fockler, library coordinator, Washoe County School District, Reno, NV

Suzanne Morgan Williams' spare, straightforward prose lets the O'Maras speak their piece on war and sacrifice, family loyalty and courage, and reveals what it means to live in the heart of the modern West. – Terri Farley, author of the Phantom Stallion series

- ◆ Suzanne Morgan Williams is author of the middle-grade novel, Bull Rider, Margaret K. McElderry Books (imprint of Simon and Schuster) 2009, and ten published and one upcoming nonfiction books for children. Bull Rider is a Junior Library Guild Selection for 2009, and represented Nevada at the 2008 National Book Festival in Washington DC. Bull Rider is on both the Texas Library Association's 2010 Lone Star and Tayshas Reading lists, is a finalist for Nevada Young Reader Award 2011, Missouri's Truman Award and Indiana's Young Hoosier Award. It is on the Bank Street College Best Books of 2010 list and won a Western Heritage Award from the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum in Oklahoma City.

Suzanne has been a Nevada Artist in Residence, winner of a Sierra Arts Foundation Fellowship and Nevada Arts Council Grants, and is Co-Regional Advisor of the Nevada Region of Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators.

A former teacher she has presented to numerous schools, libraries and museums, as well as at teachers', writers', and librarians' conferences. She lives in Reno, Nevada.

Buzz About Bull Rider

So here is some of my favorite feedback from bloggers, reviewers, and just folks:

- ★ San Fransisco/Sacramento Book Review – Five Stars – “A combination of touching and believable characters – from Cam and his brother Ben to their feisty and fun Grandma Jean – and the thrill of skateboarding and bull-riding makes this story one that will keep readers turning pages with anticipation. Williams’ straight-forward writing pulls you in immediately and her balance between hope and suffering will keep you engaged until the end. – Genny Heikka. SBR’s interview with Suzanne Morgan Williams is available at their Audible Authors and on her website www.suzannemorganwilliams.com
- ★ Knights Read Books, <http://knightsreadbooks.blogspot.com> Just let me say that I love this book. It is a great layered story that goes beyond the title of Bull Rider. . .one of family and their expectations of who you should be versus who you are; of strength and trials of life; of military service and dreams deferred. It is, ultimately, a story of familial love and hope. – Mrs. S. – in her reviews of Texas Lone Star books.
- ★ From an e-mail to those in the veterans’ community – I believe that Bull Rider is an important book for our community. While it is directed at a younger audience, it is still an exceptional read. . .It addressed topics and issues that might be impacting younger siblings and loved ones of our injured and deployed service members in a thorough and caring way. . . That said, if you work with veterans, active service members or their families, I would encourage you to get this book. Like I said, I’ve read it twice. – Caleb Cage, twice deployed Iraq veteran, co-author of The Gods of Diyala; Transfer of Command in Iraq, and rural veterans liaison for Nevada
- ★ From a student in Nevada – I absolutely loved your book Bull Rider. . . Thank you for being a writer and doing the world a favor by being incredible. This book I can recommend to everyone. – Kacie, Sage School, Spring Creek, Nevada
- ★ From a mom in Michigan – While my mother was in the hospital in Michigan I picked up a book from their donated supply. I meant to have my son read it as he is both a skateboarder and a bull rider. But as I waited for my mother’s test results I decided to check it out. I couldn’t put it down. This book is great. It has a heart that must come straight from you. . . I will recommend it to many. I hope this book does well in sales but I am sure it will do more for your spirit and those that read it as it has done for mine. – Marti Overmyer, Marquette MI
- ★ From a student in Texas – I’m reading your Book Bull Rider Right now and i love it already, and that’s a good thing for you cause i hate reading and i saw bull rider on the book so i got it cause finals are next week and i had to read about something to do with cowboys(: so thank you.
- ★ From a Teacher in Arkansas – Thank you for writing this book. It is such a blessing. – Joy Nichols – Little Rock, Arkansas
- ★ From a mom in Utah - my 13 year old son who does not like to read books at all, loves your book! He only reads when he has to for school for book reports etc., but he has been reading Bull Rider because he wants to; I am amazed! . . . It's the first time he's had book that he "can't put down. " – Lisa Hallett, St. George, Utah

Texas Book Club Grabs 'Bull Rider' by the Horns

Students at Kelly Lane Elementary School in Pflugerville, Tex., read Suzanne Morgan Williams's first novel, Bull Rider (S&S/McElderry, 2009) for summer reading, and Val Escobar, the grandmother of one of the students, organized a summer book club so that students could discuss the book. The novel, which made the Lone Star State reading list, tells the story of Ben, a skateboarder who has no interest in the family sport of bull-riding until his brother comes home paralyzed from Iraq, and Ben has a chance to win needed award money by riding. Students, seen here, also viewed a documentary on injured Iraq veterans as part of the book club

Appeared in Publisher's Weekly, September 2, 2010 –Children's Bookshelf

About Suzanne's Presentations -

My teachers and students raved about how interesting you were...we loved how you told the stories behind the stories...You captured their attention from the beginning. — Desiree Beard, Lake Dallas Middle School, Lake Dallas, Texas

An interesting, funny, talented person who communicates a real interest and caring about students and their reading and writing habits. — Terry Rose, McLoughlin Middle School, Vancouver, Washington

You truly mesmerized our students and created great interest in your book ... you were just wonderful and you had such a positive impact on the students. — Sarah T. Severs, J.P. Burley Middle School, Charlottesville, Virginia

The students enjoyed your presentation and it was very motivating for us teachers as well. Thank you for making great literature so accessible to the kids! — Katherine Giszack, Charlottesville Catholic School, Charlottesville, Virginia

Her presentation was both informative and fascinating to our students. Our young readers and writers at the Ohio Virtual Academy appreciated seeing what inspired her to write such a great story. — Kelly Booth, Ohio Virtual Academy

Bull Rider - from Margaret K. McElderry, 2009 (Simon and Schuster) ISBN: 1-4169-6130-5. Now available in paperback ISBN: 1-4424-1252-6

Every student has a story . . . Each story has its truth.

There is nothing more moving about a story than knowing it is true – whether that truth is in the actual events, in the details that lead us to believe it, or in a deeper human place of emotional resonance. There is no better teacher, no more straightforward way to make a point than with a story. Through stories, students become readers and writers. They remember. And they share.

Suzanne Morgan Williams is author of both fiction and non-fiction books for children. Her work has taken her to Mexico, the Arctic, backstage at the rodeo, and to teaching wigwams on Indian reservations. She's been stranded on the sea ice on Hudson Bay and dodged a bull's horns as he tried to climb out of a chute. Suzanne watches and listens – then she weaves facts into fiction or uncovers the real story in a non-fiction project.

Suzanne is a former teacher and frequent presenter in schools, libraries, museums, and to conference groups. She uses visuals, interaction, and her own stories to draw her audience into a place where detail, experience, and emotion blend to create one story that needs to be told.

About Suzanne's books and presentations:

Your presentation was fascinating and your book (Made in China) will be my primary resource for my China unit . . . Cris Barry, 6th grade teacher, California.

Suzanne has completed an excellent book on Inuit culture (The Inuit.) We are not always so fortunate as to receive authors who are not only willing to come into the community but to learn from its inhabitants as well. Bev Hill, Principal, Nunavut, Canada

Everyone really enjoyed your presentation and your rapport with the children was great! Heather Whitehill, Pacific Science Center, Seattle, Washington

I think the book (Cherokee Indians) is EXCELLENT and one of the best I have seen for children. Lisa Stopp, Literature Coordinator, Cherokee Nation, Tahlequah, Oklahoma

Programs and Presentations

Fact in Fiction: Grades 4 and up: How do research, interviews, travel and site visits, storytelling and personal experience work together in creating fiction? For large groups Suzanne includes a power point presentation, student interaction, and plenty of stories and examples as well as sharing from her work. She emphasizes skills students already have that will help them create their own stories.

Grades K-3: Suzanne shares stories she has learned in her research and integrates age appropriate activities to hold your students' interest. Plenty of visuals too.

For groups smaller groups: up to sixty participants she can include some hands on activities – such as practicing interviewing skills, writing a group story, or using personal experience to create the building blocks for their own stories.

The Story Behind Bull Rider: Middle school and high school students learn about researching the facts behind Bull Rider. Suzanne talks about the sacrifices service people and their families make and she challenges students to support our injured veterans. A lesson in research, civics, and literature.

Suzanne also talks to students about their own unique stories that only they are qualified to tell. She encourages them to become both readers and writers

Nonfiction Too: Ask Suzanne about her non-fiction presentations including Chinese Inventions, Chinese Culture, and North America, Sacred Land.
