So, don't worry about if the character you are like is a boy or a girl. Think about the type of person he/she is. Here's the key:

If you chose mainly A's you are like Cam O'Mara. You are loyal, physical, a person who likes to act and sometimes acts before you think. Anyone would be lucky to have you for a friend, but they may have to slow you down sometimes and ask you to consider all your options.

If you chose mainly B's you are like Favi Ruiz. You don't let other people tell you what to do or how to be but sometimes you tell them! You like to do lots of things from working on cars to reading romance. You are the kind of friend who's always ready to talk and share your ideas. You may surprise your friends by giving them advice, almost seeming judgemental, and then supporting them no matter what they decide to do.

If you chose mainly C's you are most like Lali O'Mara. You are a free spirit, light hearted and you let other people worry. You have better things to do, like have fun. But you feel deeply and care about those you love. You'll always have a tissue for someone's tears and you remember birthdays and special occasions. Everyone wants you around because you make them smile.

If you chose a mix of As and Bs – you are active and steady. You may be literal about how you think. You have your friend's back. People may vote you most likely to succeed.

If you chose a mix of Bs and Cs – you are unpredictable and fun. You probably like to daydream and your friends want you just to hang out. You may be a poet at heart.

If you chose a mix of As and Cs – you may know what you should do but sometimes you need to just blow it off. You could be a procrastinator or maybe you're a "doer" with a softer side. People might say you're hard to read, but that's their problem.

If you have equal numbers of A's, B's, and C's –Read the book and decide for yourself. Maybe you're more like Darrell or Grandma Jean.
